THE ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE OF TRANSFER STUDENTS ADMITTED TO THE UNIVERSITY OF MISSISSIPPI IS EVALUATED. PART I CONSIDERS 306 TRANSFER STUDENTS ADMITTED TO THE UNIVERSITY IN SEPTEMBER 1963 AND COVERS A SIX-SEMESTER STUDY PERIOD OF THE ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE OF THE GROUP WHEN SEPARATED BY TRANSFER CUMULATIVE GRADE POINT. PART II CONSIDERS THE ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE OF THE SAME GROUP WHEN SEPARATED BY TRANSFER CUMULATIVE GRADE POINT AND MISSISSIPPI RESIDENTS, OUT-OF-STATE RESIDENTS, AND TRANSFERS FROM MISSISSIPPI JUNIOR COLLEGES. PART III CONSIDERS 1,610 TRANSFER STUDENTS ADMITTED TO THE UNIVERSITY BETWEEN SEPTEMBER 1963 AND FEBRUARY 1966. THIS SECTION PROVIDES DATA ON THE COMPOSITION OF TRANSFER STUDENTS ENTERING PARTICULAR SCHOOLS OR COLLEGES WITHIN THE UNIVERSITY WHEN SEPARATED ACCORDING TO TRANSFER CUMULATIVE GRADE-POINT AVERAGE. THE FINDINGS OF PART I INCLUDE--(1) 42 PERCENT HAD WITHDRAWN FROM THE UNIVERSITY DURING THE STUDY PERIOD, AND (2) 45 PERCENT HAD GRADUATED FROM THE UNIVERSITY DURING THE STUDY PERIOD, BUT ONLY 5 PERCENT HAD A CUMULATIVE GPA OF 2.00 OR BETTER. THE FINDINGS OF PART II REVEALED--(1) OF THE 227 STUDENTS IDENTIFIED AS MISSISSIPPI RESIDENTS, 41 PERCENT HAD WITHDRAWN AND 47 PERCENT HAD GRADUATED FROM THE UNIVERSITY DURING THE STUDY PERIOD, (2) OF THE 79 STUDENTS OF OUT-OF-STATE RESIDENCE, 47 PERCENT HAD WITHDRAWN AND 39 PERCENT HAD GRADUATED DURING THE STUDY PERIOD, AND (3) OF THE 112 MISSISSIPPI JUNIOR COLLEGE TRANSFERS, 42 PERCENT HAD WITHDRAWN AND 46 PERCENT HAD GRADUATED DURING THE STUDY PERIOD. PART III REVEALED INFORMATION PERMITTING THE SEPARATE SCHOOLS WITHIN THE UNIVERSITY TO IDENTIFY THE CALIBER OF STUDENTS THEY SECURE FROM IN-STATE, OUT-OF-STATE, AND MISSISSIPPI JUNIOR COLLEGES. OVERALL, TRANSFERRED GPA WAS FOUND TO BE RELATED TO ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE ON WORK COMPLETED AT THE UNIVERSITY OF MISSISSIPPI. (GB)

FOREWORD

The principal objective of this study is to provide data which will yield evaluations of certain elements of academic performance of transfer students admitted to the University of Mississippi.

Parts I and II of this three-part study relate to 306 transfer students admitted to the University of Mississippi in September 1963 and is a six-semester report of the academic performance of the group when separated by:

1. Transfer cumulative grade-point average,
2. Class standing at time of admission and by transfer cumulative grade-point average,
3. Home residence and transfer cumulative GPA,
4. Mississippi junior college transfer students by transfer cumulative GPA.

The study group for Part III is composed of 1,610 transfer students admitted to the University during the period September 1963 through February 1966. The principal objective of Part III is to provide data on the composition of transfer students--especially with regard to the number and percentage entering each School or the College of Liberal Arts--when separated according to transfer cumulative grade-point average.

It was not the purpose in the narrative part of this report to exhaust the facts and implications that may be drawn from the data as presented in the tables. Rather, only the main findings have been highlighted, and the reader may make additional interpretations of the data according to his desires for information in his particular area.

Two ratios were developed--one, the Academic Ratio, establishes "pass-fail" relationships for work attempted at the University of Mississippi whether or not a person withdrew from the University of Mississippi; and a second, the University Ratio, establishes "pass-fail' relationships for students who, if "passing", did not withdraw except for graduation, but rather remained at the University of Mississippi during the period of this study. The ratios are presented as a method of summarizing and evaluating group performance, and as a supplementary means of comparing overall academic performance between groups.

INTRODUCTION

This three-part study provides certain pertinent enrollment and performance data of transfer students who were admitted to the University of Mississippi during the period September 1963 through February 1966.

Parts I and II are primarily concerned with longitudinal analyses of scholastic achievement, persistence, attrition, and graduation among transfer students admitted to the University at the beginning of the fall semester, 1963. Part III is primarily concerned with enrollment data of transfer students who entered the University at anytime during the period which started with the fall semester, 1963-64 and terminated with the spring semester, 1965-66.

The period of the study for each report begins with the fall semester, 1963 and ends with the beginning of the fall semester, 1966. Additional information relating to the nature of the studies and to the composition of the study groups in Parts I, II, and III may be found in the statements which precede each part of the study.

Definition of Terms Used

Attrition. Attrition is the term used to denote losses in enrollment, except through graduation, and is reported for defined performance periods.

Mississippi Junior College Transfer Students. Parts II and III include a group composed of students identified as Mississippi junior college transfer students. The students who compose this group were those who had earned transfer credit at a single Mississippi (public or private) junior college--irrespective of their home residences. Excluded were those students who had attended two or more institutions of higher learning prior to their initial admission to the University.

Performance Period. A performance period is a designated period of time over which an evaluation is made of one or more of the characteristics being measured.

Persistence. Persistence, as used in this study, is the per cent of students remaining at a designated time following a performance period or following the period of the study.

Transfer Student. The term "transfer student" in this study means those students who were classified as full-time students for one or more semesters in an institution of higher learning prior to their initial admission as undergraduate, full-time students at the University of Mississippi. Included in the study are all undergraduate transfer students who entered the University of Mississippi as full-time new students, September 1963 through February 1966, except those in the following classifications: (a) auditor; (b) fifth year Pharmacy student; (c) special student; (d) transient student; and (e) those who had earned transfer credit only through summer coursework, extension, or other part-time study.

Ratios

Academic Ratio. The Academic Ratio "A" is the ratio of the number of students with satisfactory academic progress to the number of students with unsatisfactory academic progress. The "A" ratio is as follows:

$$A = \frac{(G + S)}{F}$$

where:

G is the number who graduated from the University during the study period,

S is the number (excluding those in G) who maintained a University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher, whether or not they remained at the University of Mississippi until the end of the study period,

F is the number (excluding those in G) who maintained a University cumulative GPA less than 2.00.

For convenience in making comparisons between subgroups, equivalent academic ratios are shown with one unit denominators.

University Ratio. The University Ratio "U" is the ratio of the sum of the students who graduated and those who persisted at the end of the study period with a University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher, to the number of students with unsatisfactory academic progress. It differs from the "A" ratio in that those students who withdrew from the University with passing grades (2.00 or higher) are not included. The "U" (University) ratio is as follows:

$$U = \frac{(G + P)}{F}$$

where:

G and F are the same measures as defined for the Academic Ratio,

P is the number who were persisting at the University of Mississippi at the end of the study period and passing, i.e., having a University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher. (Students who withdrew passing are not included.)

For convenience in comparing the performance of subgroups, University ratios are also given with one unit (F = 1) denominators.

PARTS I AND II

UNDERGRADUATE TRANSFER STUDENTS ADMITTED SEPTEMBER 1963

Introduction

A meaningful evaluation of academic performance necessitates the application of a longitudinal study which reports qualitative measures of certain relevant performance characteristics. For this reason, Parts I and II were designed to emphasize measures of persistence and attrition in terms of the scholastic achievement of the study group during, and following, a three-year study period.

In Part I, the transfer students admitted (N = 306) to the University of Mississippi in September 1963 were separated for study on the basis of earned transfer cumulative grade-point averages. Each student was classified into a subgroup according to one of the following transfer, cumulative, grade-point ranges: 0.00 - 1.49; 1.50 - 1.99; 2.00 - 2.49; and 2.50 - 4.00. In order to permit investigation of academic performance within traditional dichotomous categories, additional data are given for GPA ranges of 0.00 - 1.99 and 2.00 - 4.00.

In Part II, study groups were formed on the basis of classification within one or more of the following categories:

1. Transfers from junior and senior institutions who were admitted as Mississippi residents,

2. Transfers from junior and senior institutions who were admitted as out-of-state residents,

3. Transfers from Mississippi junior colleges.

The students in each transfer classification were further separated into subgroups on the basis of the following transfer cumulative grade point ranges: 0.00 -1.99; 1.50 - 1.99; and 2.00 - 4.00. For Parts I and II the following elements of performance are reported:

1. Attrition by performance period and cumulative attrition,

2. Attrition for the entire study period among students with University cumulative grade-point averages of less than 2.00,

3. Cumulative graduation and graduation by performance period,

4. Total persistence and persistence among students who maintained a University grade-point average of 2.00 or higher,

5. Number and per cent of students with transfer grade-point averages that are less than the grade-point averages they earned at the University of Mississippi.

Data are presented to allow consideration of the academic performance of students with transfer cumulative GPA in the 1.50 - 1.99 range--particularly with regard to the subgroup composed of students who maintained a University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher. A summary of the principal findings for each part is followed by the presentation of tabular data for the part.

Summary Statements--Part I

The statements below relate to a study of the academic performance of 306 undergraduate transfer students admitted to the University of Mississippi September 1963 and followed in this study through September 1966.

Information In Tables I - XII

Tables I and II show, respectively, the composition of the study group by sex, mean semester hours attempted prior to transfer, and initial distribution in the Schools or College of Liberal Arts at the University.

Table III reports cumulative grade-point averages for coursework completed at the University during the study period and accounts for the number and percentage from the study group who withdrew during the first semester (1963) while passing fifty per cent or more of the coursework attempted.

Tables IV - V and VI - VII are, respectively, reports of attrition and graduation for the study group when separated on the basis of transferred cumulative grade-point average.

Tables VIII - XI, respectively, are summaries of the academic performance of freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors when classified according to number of semester hours attempted at transfer institutions. Table XII summarizes the academic performance of the entire study group and was used as the basis for the statements presented in "A" through "E" below.

A. For the entire study group of 306 transfer students:

1. Forty-two per cent (128) had withdrawn from the University by the end of the three-year study period. (See Table XII, Col. 5)

   a. Twenty-four per cent (74) withdrew with University cumulative GPA of less than 2.00. (Col. 3)

   b. Eighteen per cent (54) withdrew with University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher at the time of their withdrawal. (Col. 5 - Col. 3)

2. Forty-five per cent (138) graduated from the University during the study period. (Col. 11)

3. Thirteen per cent (40) were persisting at the end of the study period (Col. 7 - Col. 11) but only five per cent (16) were persisting with a University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher. (Col. 9 - Col. 11)

B. For the 30 transfer students with transfer cumulative GPA in the 0.00 - 1.49 range:

1. Approximately sixty-seven per cent (20) had withdrawn from the University by the end of the three-year study period.

   a. Fifty per cent (15) withdrew with University cumulative GPA of less than 2.00.

b. Seventeen per cent (5) withdrew with University GPA of 2.00 or higher at the time of their withdrawal.

2. Three per cent (1) graduated from the University during the study period.

3. Thirty per cent (9) were persisting at the end of the study period but only ten per cent (3) had a cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher.

C. For the 75 transfer students admitted with transfer cumulative GPA in the 1.50 - 1.99 range:

1. Sixty per cent (45) had withdrawn from the University by the end of the three-year study period.

a. Forty-five per cent (34) withdrew with University cumulative GPA less than 2.00.

b. Fifteen per cent (11) withdrew with University GPA of 2.00 or higher at the time of their withdrawal.

2. Twenty-eight per cent (21) graduated from the University during the study period.

3. Twelve per cent (9) were persisting at the end of the study period but only five per cent (4) had a University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher.

D. For the 95 transfer students with transfer cumulative GPA in the 2.00 - 2.49 range:

1. Thirty-four per cent (32) had withdrawn from the University by the end of the study period.

a. Twenty-one per cent (20) withdrew with University cumulative GPA less than 2.00.

b. Thirteen per cent (12) withdrew with a University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher at the time of their withdrawal.

2. Forty-eight per cent (46) graduated from the University during the study period.

3. Eighteen per cent (17) were persisting at the end of the study period but only five per cent (5) had a University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher.

E. For the 106 transfer students admitted with transfer cumulative GPA in the 2.50 - 4.00 range:

1. Twenty-nine per cent (31) had withdrawn from the University by the end of the study period.

a. Five per cent (5) withdrew with University cumulative GPA of less than 2.00.

b. Twenty-five per cent (26) withdrew with University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher at the time of their withdrawal.

2. Sixty-six per cent (70) graduated from the University during the study period.

3. Five per cent (5) were persisting at the end of the study period but only four per cent (4) were persisting with University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher.

Information In Tables XIII - XIV--Ratios*

A. The Academic Ratio.

The ratio of the number of students with satisfactory academic performance to the number of students with unsatisfactory academic performance--the "A" ratio--ranged from .4/1 for students with cumulative GPA of 0.00 - 1.49, to 16.7/1 for students admitted with cumulative GPA of 2.50 - 4.00. The ratio for each successive GPA range was approximately twice that of the lower adjacent range with the exception of the ratio comparison of the 2.00 - 2.49 range with the 2.50 - 4.00 range. The academic ratio of the latter group was in excess of eight times that of the former group.

The "A" ratio of .75/1 or 3/4 for the 0.00 - 1.99 transfer cumulative range may be interpreted to mean, that, for the sample used, three out of seven students admitted with unsatisfactory performance at transfer institutions either graduated from the University or maintained a University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher while in attendance at the University.

*See pages 3 and 4 for formulae.

The "A" ratio of 4.3/1 for the 2.00 - 4.00 range may be interpreted to mean that approximately four out of five students admitted with satisfactory performance at transfer institutions either graduated or maintained a University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher while in attendance at the University of Mississippi.

A similar interpretation may be applied to the "A" ratio of 2.1/1 for the total study group.

B. The University Ratio.

The ratio of the sum of the students who graduated and those who persisted at the end of the study period with University GPA of 2.00 or higher, to the number of students with unsatisfactory academic progress--the "U" ratio--ranged from .2/1 or 1/5 for the 0.00 - 1.99 GPA range to 12.3/1 for the 2.50 - 4.00 GPA range.

The "U" ratio of each succeeding GPA range was approximately three times that of the lower adjacent range with the exception of the comparison of the "U" ratio of the 2.00 - 2.49 range with that of the 2.50 - 4.00 range. The "U" ratio of the latter range was approximately eight times that of the former.

Considering the "U" ratio as a fair estimate of total University of Mississippi graduates to be produced from the group to an estimate of the total who will not graduate from the University because of grade deficiencies during the period of the enrollment, it may be estimated that:

(a) Within those students admitted with unsatisfactory (0.00 - 1.99) transfer cumulative GPA--for each student who graduates, there will be two students who apparently will not graduate from the University because of grade-point deficiencies. (U = .5/1 or 1/2)

(b) Within those students admitted with satisfactory (2.00 - 4.00) transfer cumulative GPA--for every three students who graduate, there will be one student who apparently will not graduate from the University because of grade-point deficiency during the period of enrollment. (U = 3.3/1)

The reader is reminded that this University Ratio, "U", excludes those students who withdrew from the University with a satisfactory (2.00 or higher) University cumulative GPA average.

Tables I - XIV which furnish the above information and a great deal more, follow and conclude Part I.

Summary Statements--Part II

The statements below relate to a second study of the academic performance of 306 undergraduate transfer students admitted to the University of Mississippi September 1963 and followed in the study through September 1966. In Part II the study group was separated into subgroups entitled: (1) Mississippi residents, (2) Out-of-state residents, and (3) Transfers from Mississippi junior colleges.

Information In Tables XV - XXI

Table XV is used to describe the transfer students by sex while Table XVI describes them by College or Schools attended at the University of Mississippi. Both tables show the transferred cumulative grade-point averages. Tables XVII - XVIII and XIX - XX show, by semester performance periods while at the University of Mississippi, attrition and graduation, respectively, for the transfer students.

Table XXI has numerous informative items from which may be taken or deduced all of the information for the residence groups and junior college group necessary to show the disposition of the 306 transfer students who entered the University of Mississippi in September 1963. Similar statements in "A", "B", and "C" which follow, show the disposition of the in-state, out-of-state and junior college transfer students. Listed in the "A" section are the appropriate column(s) of Table XXI which indicate where the information presented may be found.

A. For the 227 transfer students identified as Mississippi residents: (See Table XXI, Col. 2)

1. Forty per cent (91) had withdrawn from the University by the end of the three-year study period. (Col. 5)

   a. Twenty-two per cent (51) withdrew with University cumulative GPA of less than 2.00. (Col. 3)

   b. Eighteen per cent (40) withdrew with University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher during the study period. (Col. 5 - Col. 3)

2. Forty-seven per cent (107) graduated from the University during the study period. (Col. 11)

3. Thirteen per cent (29) were persisting at the end of the study (Col. 7 - Col. 11) but only four per cent (10) were persisting with a University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher. (Col. 9 - Col. 11)

B. For the 79 transfer students identified as out-of-state residents:

1. Forty-seven per cent (37) had withdrawn from the University by the end of the three-year study period.

   a. Twenty-nine per cent (23) withdrew with University cumulative GPA of less than 2.00.

   b. Eighteen per cent (14) withdrew with University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher during the study period.

2. Thirty-nine per cent (31) graduated from the University during the study period.
3. Fourteen per cent (11) were persisting at the end of the study but only eight per cent (6) were persisting with a University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher.

C. For the 112 students identified as transfers from Mississippi junior colleges:

1. Forty-two per cent (47) had withdrawn from the University by the end of the three-year study period.
   a. Thirty-one per cent (35) withdrew with University cumulative GPA of less than 2.00.
   b. Eleven per cent (12) withdrew with University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher during the study period.
2. Forty-six per cent (52) graduated from the University during the study period.
3. Twelve per cent (13) were persisting at the end of the study but only four per cent (4) were persisting with a University cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher.

Information In Tables XXII - XXIII--Ratios

As in Part I, the Academic and University ratios are presented in Part II and the reader is referred to Part I for the description of the ratios.

The Academic Ratio "A" ranged from a low of .4/1 for Mississippi junior college transfers with transfer GPA in the 1.50 - 1.99 range, to 5.8/1 for transfers classified as out-of-state residents with transfer GPA in the 2.00 - 4.00 range.

The transfer students classified as Mississippi residents, 2.00 - 4.00 GPA, attained the highest (2.2/1) academic ratio, followed by out-of-state residents and Mississippi junior college transfers with ratios of 1.8/1 and 1.5/1, respectively.

It might be expected that the two ratios would produce results of approximately the same relative ratios when applied to the same subgroups. By comparing the two tables only slight changes in position will be noted. Again in the "U" ratio for the 2.00 - 4.00 GPA students, Mississippi residents lead with a 1.7/1 ratio, with out-of-state residents having a 1.3/1 ratio which in this instance is the same as that of the junior college group.

A comparison of the rates of performance of students with transfer GPA of less than 2.00 and those with GPA of 2.00 or higher was made and for those with less than 2.00 GPA it was found:

1. Total attrition: Twice that of those with GPA of 2.00 or higher,
2. "Failing" attrition (withdrawing with a GPA less than 2.00): Four times that of those with GPA of 2.00 or higher,
3. Graduation: One-third that of those with GPA of 2.00 or higher.

Tables XV - XXIII follow.

PART III

UNDERGRADUATE TRANSFER STUDENTS ADMITTED-- SEPTEMBER 1963 THROUGH FEBRUARY 1966

The study group for Part III consists of 1,610 transfer students admitted to the University during the period September 1963 through February 1966. The purpose of this section of the report is to provide descriptive data relating to the initial enrollment of transfer students by:

1. Admission period by GPA (Table XXIV),
2. Admission period by College or Schools (Table XXV),
3. Transfer cumulative grade-point average by College of Schools (Table XXVI).

It also provides data which permit comparisons of the scholastic performance of students who entered at the beginning of the first semesters with those entering second semesters. The study period terminated at the beginning of the fall semester 1966 and thus some students have a full six semester record at the University of Mississippi while the last to enter (Spring semester 1966) have only a one semester record. Table XXVII should be interpreted with this limitation in mind.

Information In Tables XXIV - XXVII

Table XXIV shows that there were 1,135 transfer students whose residence was Mississippi that transferred to the University of Mississippi during the three year period of the study. A look at the total for each group shows that the number of transferred students increased yearly. Also the ratio of students admitted with a 2.00 or better GPA was about two to one in comparison with those admitted with a lesser GPA.

In Table XXV, the number of transfer students entering the University of Mississippi, by semester or summer session, may be seen according to the College or Schools entered for the three years of the study period.

From Table XXVI, comparisons may be made of the quality of transfer students, as measured by GPA, for each School or College. Also each School can tell whether it secures its best transfer students from in-state, out-of-state, or junior college transfers generally. For example, in the College of Liberal Arts the number of transfer students from Mississippi with a GPA of 2.00 or higher was 297 while the number below this GPA range was 114; on the other hand, the out-of-state residents numbered nearly the same, 107 to 100, respectively, and for the junior colleges, the ratio was about four to one with one-half having a GPA of 2.00 or higher and only 27 below this average.

The scholastic performance of students, by semester admitted to the University is shown in Table XXVII. Column 3 shows that 65 per cent of the 1,159 students admitted the first semesters had a GPA of 2.00 or higher while 35 per cent had a GPA of less than 2.00. Column 9 shows that for the 324 students admitted the second semesters, 54.32 per cent had a GPA of 2.00 or higher while 45.68 per cent had less than this. Columns 5 and 11 show that as far as academic performance at the University of Mississippi was concerned, the same per cent prevailed for the total group of both the first and second semesters admission. In each group 44 per cent made less than a 2.00 GPA.

Compared with GPA's earned at institutions from whence students transferred, about 62 per cent of those admitted during a first semester and about 53 per cent of those admitted the second semester made a lesser GPA at the University of Mississippi (Columns 7 and 13).

CONCLUSIONS

The reader may draw a number of conclusions from the Summary Statements previously given in this report. The authors thought, however, that certain conclusions might serve a worthy purpose and these are given below:

1. Even though the cumulative grade-point average of transfer students earned at the University tends to be lower than the grade-point average transferred, scholastic performance in the two instances seem to be related--study groups with higher transfer GPA maintained higher University GPA and moreover, each successively higher GPA category produced less attrition and higher graduation rates.

2. The performance of the vast majority of students with transfer cumulative GPA less than 2.00 may be rated as unsatisfactory.

3. The grades received by transfer out-of-state residents appear more closely related to grades received at the University of Mississippi than do the corresponding grades for Mississippi residents which usually are higher from the transferring institutions.

4. For out-of-state transfer students with transfer cumulative GPA of 2.00 or higher, attrition rates are no greater for those who are "passing" at the University than are attrition rates among the corresponding Mississippi students. This implies that this category of out-of-state students, once enrolled in the University, is no more likely to transfer to another institution or withdraw for any reason, than is the native counterpart.

5. Students classified as junior college transfers when viewed in terms of the percentage graduated or proceeding satisfactorily toward graduation performed as well as other groups.
